

Self-Love

Each one of us is the center of their Universe. You are the center of your Universe. If you stop and think about this, you realize that it can not be any other way. Your world, your Universe revolves around who you are and who you came here to be.

It is important for us to remember that we need to be Self-Full. If you are not being selfish or self-full, you are not able to stay connected and aligned with Source Energy. Your ability to stay connected to Source Energy is all powerful. When you are in this place, you are standing in your place of power. When you are in this place, you are able to radiate the good loving energy out to those who can not yet do it for themselves. When you stand in this place of power, where you are in a place of alignment, you are connected to source. You are the catalyst who helps to bring the love and the uplifting energy to those who do not yet know how or understand how to connect and have this for themselves.

You have to be selfish or self-full in order to put yourself into the place of alignment.
